Summary of the Lecture/Activity:

The Extension Work Festival AAROHAN 2026, organized by the Department of Lifelong Learning & Extension (DLLE) at MES's H.K. College of Pharmacy, was conducted as an intra-collegiate event with the objective of fostering creativity, self-expression, and intellectual engagement among students. The festival offered a vibrant platform for students to showcase their talents across various competitive categories while enhancing essential skills such as public speaking, writing, and artistic expression. The competitions conducted during the festival were as follows:

1. Creative Writing Competition (07.01.2026): Participants were provided with a visual prompt (image) and tasked with crafting an original written piece of 200–300 words within 30 minutes, thereby assessing their creativity, imagination, and storytelling skills.
2. Poster Making Competition (10.01.2026-12.01.2026): Students designed posters on themes such as environmental preservation, career development, and senior citizen care, with evaluation based on creativity, clarity of message, and overall visual appeal.
3. Elocution Competition (12.01.2026): Participants delivered a five-minute speech on topics including women empowerment and career growth. Judgement criteria included content quality, delivery, confidence, and overall impact.
4. Street Play Competition (09.01.2026 & 10.01.2026): Students performed in teams to present engaging and thought-provoking Nukkad Natak on themes such as senior citizen care, women empowerment, and Preservation of environment, aimed at raising awareness about important social issues.

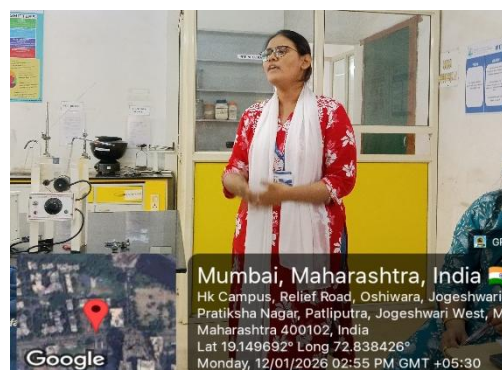

5. Powada Singing Competition (08.01.2026): Participants showcased the traditional folk art of Powada singing, highlighting cultural heritage, expression, and vocal performance skills.

Participants gained valuable experience, and winners received recognition for their creativity and communication skills. The winners of these competitions were further selected to participate in University- Level Annual Extension Work Festival: UDAAN 2026.
